Hello, Arkansas Right to Life!

I am sorry I cannot be with you today. I have been honored to join your march during my first two years in office, but this year, I am in Washington, D.C., attending the inauguration of America's most pro-life President: Donald J. Trump.

I attended my first March for Life with my dad when I was a kid. It is amazing to see how far we have come since then: we elected pro-life leaders, put smart, steadfast justices on the Supreme Court, and three years ago, overturned Roe v. Wade. Today, Arkansas is the most pro-life nation in the country. That is thanks to decades of hard work from pro-life advocates like you.

But we are not done yet. Being pro-life goes beyond protecting the unborn: it means standing up for moms and babies, protecting vulnerable kids in the foster care system, and making sure pro-life is whole-life. It means changing our nation's culture so that every life is cherished.

That is a much bigger task than just changing our country's laws, but I know you all are up to the challenge. That is why we march, this year and every year moving forward.

Thank you for your dedication to this cause, thank you for your tireless work and unbending faith, and thank you for showing up at the steps of the Capitol on a cold January morning!

Thank You!

God Bless,
